

The Cornish Buildings Group in conjunction with Historic England and the National Trust present a two-day conference to explore and discuss the conference question:

What is unique about Cornish buildings?

Our theme will unite aspects of Cornish architectural design with distinctiveness and exclusivity and will complement the content of our 2015 and 2017 conferences in which we focused on the county's rich architectural history and contemporary design philosophies.

conference date: Friday 22 and Saturday 23 March 2019

ticket price: £50 (before 31 December 2018).

Cheques payable to 'Cornish Buildings Group'. Please send to Paul Holden, c/o Lanhydrock House, Bodmin, Cornwall, PL30 5AD programme strands: Cornwall's distinctive architectural style; castles and ornament; unfinished and lost structures, enlightened sensibilities in Cornish architecture, places of worship; architects who shaped the Cornish landscapes and characteristic stones and distinctive design.
